The Carnegie Writers, Inc.
Educate. Write. Collaborate

A Word from the Publications Committee

As we begin a new year of writing, reading, and spreading our love for words, we want to thank each of you for being an important part of The Carnegie Writers, Inc. We couldn't do it without you. Your involvement has helped us not only continue our mission of Educating, Writing and Collaborating—but has allowed us to open new chapters, host annual conferences, and create exciting new publications. We are also grateful for any financial support. The Carnegie Writers, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, and all donations are tax-deductible. If you are interested in donating this year, please visit our website at www.carnegiewriters.org.

2019 Board Member of the Year

we want to congratulate our 2019 Board Member of the Year, Frank Schieber. Frank is an active member of the CW's Community Relations committee and leads the Writing Group in Alpharetta, Georgia. Frank's marketing and communications expertise has helped to further the CW's growth and success over the past several years, and we are so grateful to have him on our team. Here's to Frank!

2019 Professional Writing Event

On Saturday, Dec. 15, 2019, CW hosted its fourth Professional Writing Event at Green Hills Branch Library in Nashville. During this event, CW members had the chance to showcase their creative works in Commodities of the Mind.

Write Steps, Write Now: Comprehensive Workshop for Academic, Business, and Creative Writers

The CW held its long-awaited annual conference on Saturday, Nov. 9, 2019 at Watkins Community Education. With around 40 attendees, the conference featured fantastic presentations by CW board members, including keynote speaker, Jaden (Beth) Terrell, as well as other writers in the community. Conference attendees had the chance to hone their academic, business, and creative writing skills through writing workshops and creative exercises.
